

Centershot and JROTC transition to Arrowscores

Guidance for groups and instructors

Centershot and JROTC are moving both instructor certifications and tournaments to arrowscores.com. Certifications are moving from the NASP® BAI database at naspbai.org, and tournaments are moving from nasptournaments.org.

Where groups and schools register and compete

New Centershot and JROTC groups should be added on arrowscores.com.

Participation	Centershot and JROTC groups	JROTC group's school in NASP®
Registration	arrowscores.com	The school that the JROTC group is part of is listed on naspbai.org .
Competition	As a Centershot or JROTC group in tournaments on arrowscores.com .	The school competes as an approved NASP® school in tournaments listed on nasptournaments.org .
Requirements	Instructors need a Centershot BAI certification managed through arrowscores.com .	The school must meet NASP® school requirements and be approved by the NASP® state coordinator in the school's state.

NASP® participation for schools with JROTC groups

A JROTC group uses arrowscores.com for its group registration and tournaments. If its school also wants to participate in NASP®, the listing on naspbai.org is for the school that the JROTC group is part of. The JROTC group is not listed as a separate NASP® school.

The school must meet NASP® school requirements and be approved by the NASP® state coordinator in its state to be listed as a NASP® school or compete in tournaments listed on nasptournaments.org.

Instructor certification

How training affects certification

Centershot and JROTC instructors will need a Centershot Basic Archery Instructor (BAI) certification managed through arrowscores.com.

Training source	Certification earned	Creating the other certification
Course on naspbai.org	NASP® BAI	Yes. A NASP® BAI certification can be used to create a Centershot BAI for Centershot and JROTC groups by linking it on arrowscores.com .
Class on arrowscores.com	Centershot BAI for Centershot and JROTC	No. A BAI certification earned through a class on arrowscores.com cannot be used to create a NASP® BAI certification.

Obtain and maintain dual certification

Any BAI trained through a course on naspbai.org, as well as any active BAI currently in the NASP® BAI database, can obtain dual NASP®/Centershot (JROTC) certifications by completing these steps:

1. Create an account on arrowscores.com.
2. Link the Arrowscores account to the instructor's NASP® BAI certifications.

Once a Centershot/JROTC certification is created on arrowscores.com, it is managed separately from the NASP® certification. BAIs maintaining dual certification must submit annual reports in both systems, arrowscores.com and naspbai.org. Each certification remains subject to its own rules.

Dual instructor certification does not replace NASP® school requirements or state coordinator approval for the school that the JROTC group is part of.
